THE BEST FOR LESS -- In this world of rising food prices, Ms. Marisa Regis has the right idea. "Health foods are inexpensive but very good for you," she said. "I live on health foods now, and I'm healthy and feel good. Would you believe I was once skinny and almost anemic?" No, not really.

School Paper Country's Best

The Upland High School student newspaper -- The Upland High Plaid -- was selected as the best high school newsmagazine in the country this year by the National Scholastic Press Association (NSPA). The Plaid Press was selected over 3,000 competitors for the "Pacemaker" award.

"It's sort of like a thing you hope for and finally get," said Ms. Dorothy Reinhold, this year's editor of the Plaid.

Ms. Reinhold, 17, will be among the delegation of staff members to accept the national award in Portland, Oregon this April. The award will be presented to a delegation of about 12 Upland students and staff adviser Steve S. Eichelberger.

"We worked our way up by stages," Eichelberger said.

The Plaid Press has won nine national awards in the past year; the "Pacemaker" is its highest recognition.

Pending approval by the Chaffey Union High School District Board of Trustees, the students plan to rely on community donations to supplement their travel expenses.

"We intend to call on individuals and businesses," said Ms. Reinhold, who estimated financial needs at about $1,500.

A Plaid Press editor during the 1972 school year, Dan Kalbach, was named by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association as the best high school editorial writer in the nation.

Last spring, two student journalists at the school -- Mike Myers and Ken Holme -- were named gold key winners by the Quill and Scroll Journalism Honorary, putting them in the top 10 percent of student journalists nationwide.

Eichelberger has been recently honored as one of the top 14 journalism teachers - advisers. This fall he was given the honor by the Newspaper Fund, a foundation for furthering journalism which is sponsored by the Wall Street Journal.

The school publication was the recipient of four other top awards during the past school year.

Persons wishing to contribute to the delegation's expenses for the Portland trip may mail their donation to the Upland High School Plaid at Upland High School, 565 W. 11th St., Upland, 91786.

Finding A New Alternative

By PATRICIA REID
Of The News Staff

Upland's city staff spent seven weeks studying alternative methods for financing a bus line between Upland and Ontario. The City Council unanimously approved the alternative recommended by the administration after relatively little discussion at its last meeting.

The operator of a private bus line on a route similar to the proposed new line went out of business 18 months ago due to low patronage. William Shourds, president of the "Fun After Fifty Club," and a vocal spokesman for "senior citizens" in general, has repeatedly emphasized the need for some type of local bus system for senior citizens without other means of transportation.

"At least 40 percent of our club members don't make it to meetings because they don't have a means of transportation," Shourds said.

The comprehensive 23-page city report presented four main alternative means for financing the proposed bus service and stuck by the opinion administrators from Upland and Ontario have contended for the last six months -- that the Rapid Transit District line would initially cost less and could be operated sooner than lines operated privately by the two cities separately.

Alternative A consisted of a jointly owned Upland-Ontario system, with Upland operating and maintaining the service, and Ontario sharing 52 percent of the total cost. The advantages of this are that it affords the city full responsibility and operational control of the bus line, and revenue from daily operations would partially offset operating costs.

This plan for a city run bus line would cost the two cities $71,825 for the first year's operation. Upland's share would be 48 percent -- $34,476 and Ontario's would be $37,349. This total figure is considerably higher than the first year cost for the RTD line which is $39,865.

But, the city-operated line would cost $35,705 for the second year the line would be in service, the study said. The city of Pomona's bad experiences with city-run bus service were referred to in the study as disadvantages to this alternative. "Establishment of a city-owned-and-operated bus line entails a very complex, costly project which, as in the case of Pomona, could result in more headaches than benefits to the city and bus riders despite the financial assistance that may absorb expenditures," the study said.

Upland would also be burdened with all the requirements of organization, staffing, equipping, administering and maintaining the operation.

Alternative B is a jointly-owned Upland-Ontario system, with Upland operating and maintaining the service. Fifty percent of the financing would be through a federal grant, SB 325 monies would make up the other 50 percent. Upland and Ontario would share proportionately in the proposal.

The advantages are the same as A and disadvantages include:

--Upland would be burdened with all the requirements of organization, staffing, equipping, administering and maintaining the operation.

--Time factor involved in processing and approval of application for federal grant could cause additional delay in resuming bus service. Estimated time factor is six months to one year.

Alternative D is concerned with calling for bids to contract for private bus service. Advantages of this means are that it gives the city a choice in selecting the lowest bidder capable of providing the required services or equipment and it satisfies the statutory requirement in applying for a Federal Grant.

This was not chosen for one reason -- because SB 325 (gas tax funds) can't be used to finance private operators, and because of a time delay before implementation.

Alternative C was the study's recommended solution to the bus service problem and the option chosen by Ontario City Council last month. Upland and Ontario will contract for bus service with RTD, initially for a trial period of six to twelve months. Ontario is to bear 52 percent of the cost, and Upland 48 percent. The two cities will pay a total of 70 percent and RTD will pay 30 percent.

Estimated cost for contracting with RTD for three months is approximately $9,637. Upland's share would be $4,626. Of the estimated $39,865 full year net costs, Upland's share would approximate $16,743. Net cost for one month to Upland would be $1,542.

Advantages of contracting with RTD at this time include the following:

--A lower first-year estimated cost to the city

--Service would be provided by an experienced transportation agency

--Greater flexibility offered the Upland-Ontario residents in traveling to other zones on the RTD east-west routes at nominal cost (transfer privileges)

--Service could be put into operation within three months after approval by the city

--RTD would become the applicant for Federal Grants

It is now estimated that bus service would be in operation approximately three months after Upland and Ontario work out the final details of the route.

Ontario city officials have indicated that the proposed new Upland-Ontario bus line would only be a first step toward what may become a more extensive and flexible bus schedule in the two cities. Efforts to obtain federal funding to purchase minibuses, or offer dial-a-ride bus service, are long range possibilities.

Roger D. Hughbanks, Ontario assistant city manager, said the level of patronage will be a consideration in decisions on seeking funding for a more flexible or extensive bus system. Dial-a-ride service would mean a resident could phone and request bus service -- the bus would arrive near his home or neighborhood within a half hour or an hour.

The RTD service is supposed to take 80 minutes to cover the entire route. The proposed route will begin in south Ontario at Francis Street and Euclid Ave. The route will generally travel up Euclid Ave. to G Street where it will move west to Mountain Ave. Buses will travel past the court buildings on Mountain Ave. and turn east off Mountain at Seventh Street.

The line will travel the width of Upland along Seventh Street and then generally follow Third Ave. through the Upland Town Center to Arrow Route, where the route continues east to San Antonio Community Hospital.

Spring Quarter Registration Begins April 4

New or former students may now apply for admission to the spring quarter at Chaffey College which begins April 4 and extends to June 21.

Students in this category are required to obtain their permit-to-register cards at the admissions office before they can register on March 26 or March 27.

Admissions Dean David Hafiz urges that new or former students start the admissions procedure early in order to have a maximum range of selection in class scheduling.

The permit-to-register card is issued to a new or former student, enrolling for 12 or more units, only after he has completed these steps:

--Filed an application for admission. This must be done in person.

--Had transcripts of records sent to Chaffey College from last high school attended and from all colleges attended.

--Taken the college placement test. The test will be given at 8:30 a.m., March 10.

(The American College Test or the Scholastic Aptitude Test may be taken in lieu of the local placement test. Either ACT or SCAT is recommended for those planning to continue at a four-year college.)

--Filed measles and polio immunization forms here. (This part of the admissions procedure is not stipulated for California high school graduates.)

A part time student (one taking less than 12 units) need comply only with the first requirement, the application for admission, to get the permit-to-register card.

For more information on admissions office or call 987-1737 or 822-7456.

Local Students To Visit State Capitol

Twenty members of the eighth grade history classes at Pioneer Junior High School in Upland will get to see law being made at the end of this month. They'll be taking a two-day educational trip to the State Capitol building in Sacramento.

Three eighth grade history teachers, Ross Bloom, Bruce Breiter and Tom Dutches, made a presentation before the Upland School District Board of Trustees at their last meeting on Feb. 13 to explain the unique trip and its purpose.

After trying the "learning by doing" technique on the history classes during the national elections in November, the teachers found it was worthwhile to have the students experience the election process first hand. Some 300 junior high students walked precincts, mailed campaign literature and manned telephones in an effort to elect their chosen candidates. Two days before the election, a mock convention that attracted two state assembly candidates took place at school. Then an election was conducted at Pioneer.

The teachers told the trustees they planned to take 20 students to Sacramento "to see the legislators in action -- particularly the ones they have seen and worked with."

Students will prepare for the Sacramento trip by studying topics now being discussed in the senate and assembly. After viewing how local representatives vote on the issues, students might be able to meet with area politicians for an explanation of their votes.

"The major responsibility of the students going is to come back and share their information not only with their fellow students, but also with parents," Dutches told the trustees.

He explained that panel discussion and informal meetings would give the student body an opportunity to quiz the class members who made the trip.

The teachers estimated the trip would cost between $60 to $70 per student for the two-day trip March 27-28. Parents who can afford this sum would cover the cost for their children. If a family can't finance the trip, the school's PTA would fund the trip, the teachers said.

The Sacramento excursion will also be funded by a work force composed of the 20 students making the trip. The work force will earn money from local residents who pay the students for cleaning yards, cutting grass and doing other household chores.

The names of the 20 students who will make the trip will be drawn from a hat. Teachers, principals and parents must then approve the students chosen.

No formal action was required by the school board, but Chairman William Rugg praised the project.

Students At Alta Loma In Speech Tourney

At Alta Loma High School, a few students recently participated in a speech tourney sponsored by Chaffey College. Ms. Jackie Propps took seventh place in the expository category, and Mike Genoff was one of four people who tied for seventh place in the oral interpretation category. Ms. Cindi Johnson placed eighth in the same category. In the debate category, Mike Genoff and Ms. Daphne Calmes won one match and lost three. The students were accompanied by their speech teacher, Dan Peters.

Seven Alta Loma students entered a recent national art contest. The contest was sponsored by the National Scholastic Magazine. It was a regional contest, including San Bernardino, Riverside and a portion of Los Angeles Counties. Four Alta Loma students received Gold Keys, meaning they are semi-finalists in the competition. These students are: Ms. Lydia Bailey, for her wall hanging; Ms. Marlene Blakeman, for her ink drawing; Gary Ware, for jewelry he made, and Ms. Darcie Ververks, for a wall hanging.

Alta Loma students from the mass media, careers and counseling classes, along with several members from the student government, will take a field trip to CBS Television City on March 21. They'll see a taping of the new Vince Scully TV show. Teachers accompanying the students will be Ms. Janet Pedersen, Mary Pollock and Louise Pavey.

On February 21, twenty Alta Loma students travelled to the Ontario Motor Speedway to receive advanced driver instruction. The class was held under the supervision of the Bob Bondurant School of High Performance Driving, the Chaffey Union High School District and the Automobile Club of Southern California. The event was used to illustrate how emergency driving techniques can be included in the normal driver training curriculum. The special class included classroom instruction, learning skid control and recovery on a skid pad, maneuvers on a precision course and time on an accident simulator. A short news conference was held after the class. Two Alta Loma students, Ms. Sabrina King and Tony Munoz, participated in the making of an Auto Club driver education film.

Travelers Club To Celebrate Third Birthday

The third birthday party of the Upland Travelers will be held Friday, March 9, at the Upland Woman's Club.

Luncheon will be served at noon. Tickets are available by calling Alice Tucker at 985-5429 before Tuesday, Feb. 20.

A three-day, two-night trip to San Diego is planned for Feb. 14-16. The bus will leave at 9 a.m. from the public parking lot at C St. and First Ave. in Upland.

Reservations and deposits are now being accepted for the 15-day trip to Hawaii leaving May 26.

The next club meeting will be held at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 20 at the Sycamore Villa Mobile Homes Recreation Center in Cucamonga.

Anyone interested in the tours is asked to call Myrtle Buchanan at 983-6902 or Lucile Majors at 984-3085.

Area Bridge Completed Year Ahead Of Schedule

The bridge on Baseline Ave. across Cucamonga Creek has been completed a year ahead of schedule, according to San Bernardino County Supervisor Daniel D. Mikesell of the Second District.

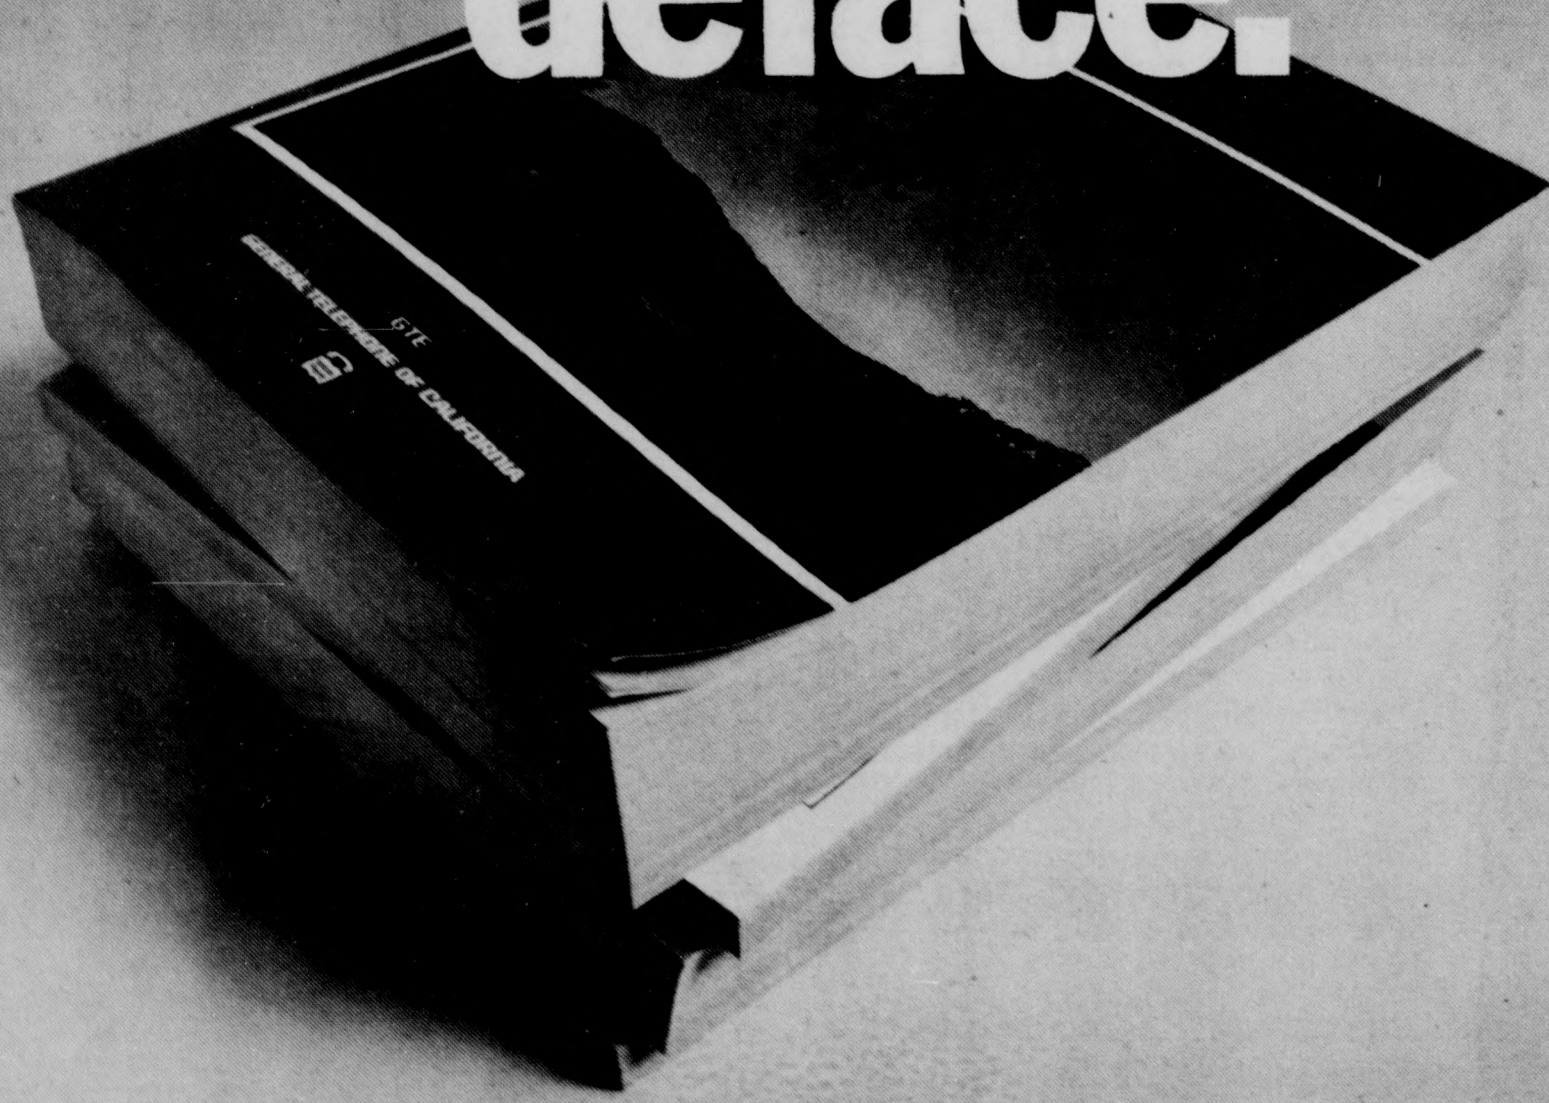

Mikesell secured funds to proceed with the $294,830 project a year early when the county received $492,918 last January as an unbudgeted refund from the Federal Aid Secondary Road Improvement program.

The Second District Supervisor pointed out that the project has been given top priority since the new bridge will prevent Cucamonga Creek from washing out Baseline Ave. and provide for through traffic even in time of heavy rainfall.

After six months of construction, the completed project is 1,000 feet in total length extending from Carnelian St. to Alta Cuesta. The bridge itself has three spans totaling 150 feet carrying four lanes of traffic with pedestrian walkways on both sides.

Please fold, mark, dog-ear and deface.

We suggest you treat your telephone directory just that way.

That way you'll easily find the numbers you use regularly.

Here are two tips:

Identify the pages on which your regular numbers are listed. Do this by folding down the top corners. Or, mark the pages with paper clips. Best of all, tip the corners with colored tape.

Underscore individual listings with red pencil or draw through them with a light yellow crayon. Then your numbers will jump right out at you.

Don't worry about defacing your phone book. We'll see that you get a fresh new one every year.

A Little Bit Of Ye Ol' England Here In Upland

By PATRICIA REID

There's a little bit of traditional old England right in the middle of Upland. For anyone who's spent some time in the East Coast, a bit of old-world architecture and styles would be a welcome relief after the super modern "brand new" of California.

Many of the homes on Upland's picturesque Euclid Ave. are Colonial in style and very lovely, but one stands out as particularly unique and eye-catching. With quaint wrought iron gas lanterns burning all the time, the English Tudor style two story dark red brick home, located at 592 North Euclid Ave., is an alluring sight. "Beware all ye who enter here

-- a bit of merry ol' England awaits you" -- one almost expects white-wigged men wearing long black tails and ruffled shirts with tiny gold framed glasses to emerge with impressive leather-bound law books under their arms.

Although the mood of the place isn't carried to that extent, the law offices of Maroney, Demchuk, Brandt and Schaefer are a refreshing change from the usual antiseptic business offices.

"Lawyers are all very much aware of English Common Law and our English heritage in our laws," attorney Barry Brandt said. Brandt and his three other partners agreed on the appropriateness of decorating their law offices with Old English touches. Brandt, who was named as project manager of the extensive decorating efforts on the former old home said, "I have always dreamed of practicing in an old house."

All aspects of the redecorated former home combine to create an instantaneous feeling of warmth, and comfort -- an oasis in the middle of noisy bustling city life. Brandt pointed out that the major conversions of walls and rooms weren't too major -- most of the home's rooms were utilized as they were with minor alterations. The arched, brick front entrance was taken out and is now where the sign is placed marking the firm's name. The front porch and sewing area were converted into vaults and business offices. The outdoor, brick carport was closed off and windows installed, tile floor put in and now makes up the bright reception area. The large former "Rec Room" has been made into an elegant law library with 100 percent walnut bookcases, doors and an attractive walnut fireplace. Whenever possible, Brandt and his associates have brought in antiques to fit into the English country house mood and period. A 100-year-old massive antique table is placed in the library. Apricot suede upholstered wing-back chairs surround it.

"Our architect, Phil Burns from Los Angeles, is a genius," Brandt enthusiastically exclaimed. Burns added walnut moldings to the mantel on the formerly square fireplace to give it a different look and feel. He also added this touch to the doorways. He designed wooden insets for the wall near the staircase. This adds a more professional, office mood to the former home.

Oil paintings (many from England), rare, antique framed prints of old English judges, and large velvet tapestries with English Coats of Arms decorate the offices. Instead of the usual consumer magazines in the reception area, you find a burgundy red book entitled "The Treasure Chest" which contains inspirational quotations about lots of different subjects.

From word of mouth, it seems the home was built in the 1930's or thereabouts by Mr. and Ms. Flowers. Dale Kelley, a nephew of the Flowers couple, and an accountant at Upland Citrus packing house, moved into the home next. In the 1950's the R. H. Schulze family took over and remained in the home until June, 1968 when they sold out to the law firm.

"The Schulzes were getting tired of living on such a busy and noisy street and were toy-ing with the idea of selling," Brandt said. "We made an offer and the sale was made the next day," he said.

Each of the four attorneys chose a special decor for his office. Three of the offices upstairs are former bedrooms. Brandt's office is the most English in style and follows through with the theme of the rest of the house. Architecturally-matched walnut paneling is on one wall, heavy deep-red print drapes are on the other. One white wall is reserved for two oil paintings, which have "wash-lights" overhead to properly light them on dark days. The ceiling is made to look like square molding insets of the English style.

Ms. Martha Mitchell, an interior designer from Azusa, worked with Burns in the decor and ordered a very impressive large, print red-black rug for downstairs on the main floor.

Well-manicured lawns and grounds surrounding the home lend a lot to the country flavor. The law office added a stylish brick fence around the home when they bought it. The Carriage House is unused at present, but may be expanded into additional office space in the future.

The attractive atmosphere seems to be conducive to the happy, satisfied frame of mind typical of Brandt and the other partners. Their dream has been fulfilled--although Brandt says he's always on the lookout for other English period antiques to set around.

Upland Man Promoted Here By ITT

John Shaffer of Upland was recently appointed as the national sales manager for International Telephone and Telegraph Corporation-Barton. Shaffer will be responsible for all domestic sales of ITT Barton's line of precision instruments and controls.

ITT Barton is a supplier of electronic and mechanical instruments and components for primary measurement, analysis and control of flow and liquid level, serving industries such as oil and gas production, chemical and petrochemical processing, cryogenics, marine and power generation.

Prior to joining ITT Barton, Shaffer was general manager of Hi-Rel Laboratories in San Marino. Previously he held engineering and sales management positions with GEC-Bell and Howell in Monrovia.

He attended Everett Junior College, Everett, Wash. and L.A. City College. Membership in professional organizations include the Electron Probe Analysis Society of America and the American Society for Quality Control. He's had numerous articles on process instrumentation and computer controls published here and abroad.

COLONIAL LADIES -- Heading tea table at recent DAR Reciprocity Tea in Pomona are: Ms. Ida Carman, DAR secretary (seated); Ms. Emily Ganger, junior member and Ms. Virginia Ganger, age 2-1/2.

And we prove it. Most markets make up their own shopping lists to compare prices. Mayfair uses UNCLE SAM'S!

The only way a market can fairly and objectively compare its prices with competing markets is by using a shopping list prepared by an outside source.

Mayfair (and, so far as we know, only Mayfair) compares the list of foods used by the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics when it measures food prices for the cost-of-living index.

Nothing could be more fair than that.

There are 23 meat items on that list—everything from lamb chops to hamburger. This month, we compared our prices for those 23 meat items with four leading competitors.

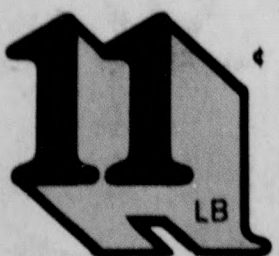

These were the results:

One more thing we'd like you to know: When you buy Mayfair meat for less, you are not buying cheap meat. In fact, we believe Mayfair meat is the very best. The leanest, freshest, tenderest and tastiest.

Mayfair's high quality combined with low prices is why, on discount prices, Mayfair really is more fair.

First Woman CC Prexy

Ms. Freda Shelley said she feels the Cucamonga-Alta Loma area will "really expand" in the next few years. "After all, the Foothill area is a good place for people who want to build new houses," she said. "And in many ways, we're a natural for new industry."

Ms. Shelley knows what she's talking about. In the nine years she's been in Cucamonga, she's 1) started a successful real estate business; 2) been the only woman president of a chamber of commerce -- anywhere in the United States.

Concerning her realty business, Ms. Shelley said, "Getting into real estate was something I'd always wanted to do, but never seemed to have time to get involved with. I moved to California from Kansas in 1946. For a while, I worked in Englewood, then I moved to Ontario and started my own chicken farm."

Ms. Shelley kept her farm going for 11 years. "And it almost ruined my health. I realized I had to get into some other line of work," she said, "so again I thought about real estate. This time I went through with my studies and started working with people -- instead of chickens." She was secretary of the Ontario-Upland-Chino Board of Realtors for four years. She's now on the board of directors of the same organization. She also was 1972 president of the Women's Council Chapter of the OUC Board. "I enjoyed that job," she said. "We did a lot of fund raising, and gave our proceeds to the Salvation Army, Teen Challenge, The Chaffey Cultural Center, and other worthwhile organizations."

Ms. Shelley was president of the Cucamonga Chamber of Commerce in 1972. This year Ms. Shelley is secretary-treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce.

Twins Club: You're Always Seeing Double

Ms. Elaine Gilbert of Upland is used to seeing double. She's the mother of twin boys, and publicity chairman for the Pomona Valley Mother of Twins Club.

"The club's been active for about 14 years," Ms. Gilbert said. "We're part of a national organization, and we've now got about 35 members in our particular chapter."

She said the club holds meetings once a month. "We also have a big Christmas party and an annual fashion show in April," she said. The proceeds from the fashion show go to aid two teenage twins who live in Bogota, Colombia. "I think the twins are 13 or 14 now. We've been assisting them monetarily since the club started. They come from an impoverished family, and we're almost their only means of outside support."

Ms. Gilbert said this year's fashion show will be held on April 1 at Griswold's. "Both mothers and twins will model new spring fashions," she said. "The public is welcome to attend. The entrance cost is just four dollars."

UPCOMING MODELS -- Members of the Cal Poly Woman's Auxiliary show off some of the fashions they'll be wearing at an upcoming style show to be given at Casa Colina Hospital.

Local Congress, March 28

The second "Community Congress" will take place in Upland beginning at 4 p.m. Wednesday, March 28 in the Upland High School auditorium. The first community-wide talk took place in 1969.

Sponsored by the Upland Chamber of Commerce, a Project Committee consisting of some 24 people has been meeting regularly to plan this "town hall" type meeting to encourage citizen involvement.

Tony Malone, manager of the Upland Chamber, said this year's meeting has been labeled "Community Conversations" -- The Changing Values. "The Chamber and Project Committee hopes this event will bring local citizens closer together and instill a feeling of cooperation," Malone said.

Hopefully, some 400-500 local citizens will pour out their frustrations and suggestions during individual panels, which will be held on several high-interest topics. These include transportation, the environment, leisure activities, volunteer service, attitudes towards crime, the disenfranchised in Upland, and home owners' problems.

From the Community Conference will come a set of community goals. A follow-up committee will present the goals to government officials and others with the power to implement the public will.

Three months following the Community Conversations, the follow-up committee will issue a report, detailing exactly what was accomplished.

"The board of the Upland Chamber felt a community congress is one way of bringing people together to develop a spirit of cooperation to help clear up the misunderstandings that divide us," John Meyer, chairman of the committee, said.

In upcoming weeks, the project committee will define the scope of interest within each of the seven areas. The committee will then recruit experts to serve as panelists.

Luncheon, Fashion Show Slated Mar. 10

The eighth Annual Scholarship Luncheon and Fashion Show will be held at noon, March 10, at Casa Colina Hospital, 255 Bonita Ave. in Pomona.

There will be a complimentary social period in the lobby prior to the buffet luncheon. Spring flowers will be used to accent the fresh pastel colors of this year's fashions.

Chairman of the affair, Ms. Fern Weisend, is being assisted by Ms. June Dale, decorations, and Ms. Marge Francis, hospitality. Special music will be provided by Ms. Frances Force.

Newest spring fashions from the Crystal Chandelier Boutique at Casa Colina will be modeled by members of the Cal Poly Women's Club. Models are: Ms. Kathy Ade, Irene Bassin, Mae Esterline, Mary-Paul Lacy, Patricia Marti, Pat McIntosh, Sylvia Petersen and Jill Simpson. Ms. Marjorie Mock, buyer for Crystal Chandelier Boutique, will act as commentator.

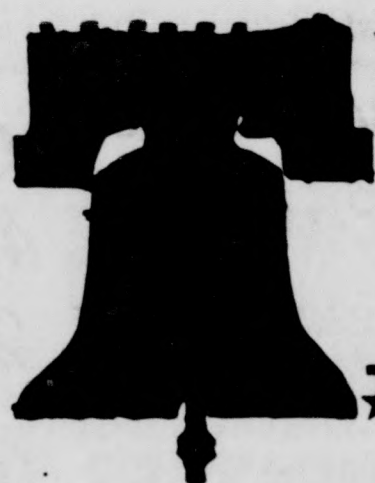

Cosmetics by Mary Kay will be featured, compliments of Ms. Bobbie Adams, Ms. Dana Cochran and Ms. Betty Wooton. A grand door prize will be awarded and a number of other attractive prizes can be won with admission tickets. There will also be a special drawing for a $50 money tree.

Club President Ms. Lucille Glenn has extended invitations to those who were recipients of scholarships through last year's fund raising efforts. The members hope to contribute the same amount this year.

For further information and to place reservations, contact Ms. Lucille Glenn (714-985-6722), Ms. Lois Welch (213-335-2610), or Ms. Fern Weisend (714-623-5557).

Reservations close Tuesday, March 6. Make checks payable to the Cal Poly Women's Club, and mail checks to Ms. Fern Weisend, 877 Hillcrest Drive, Pomona, 91766. Guests are welcome.

Smoking Is A 'Learned' Habit

The U. S. Surgeon General's warning is explicit: "Cigarette smoking is dangerous to your health." Yet, millions continue to puff away. Why? "Many persons think they can't kick the habit," says Dr. Reich, president of the San Bernardino County Heart Association.

"They assume they're addicted while medical evidence indicates they're not. Addiction, unless it's psychological, only happens where chemical changes take place in the body. There is no conclusive proof that this happens, even for heavy smokers. Smoking is a learned behavior. It can be unlearned."

"Men who smoke more than a pack of cigarettes a day have twice the risk of heart attack and five times the risk of stroke as a non-smoker," Dr. Reich says. He cites that studies show that stopping smoking can be profoundly important. "The mortality risk of people who have stopped eventually approaches the mortality risk of those who have never smoked," he notes. He emphasizes that "coronary heart disease is the leading killer of male cigarette smokers." A National Clearing House for Smoking and Health study has shown that coronary artery disease increases in relation to the number of cigarettes you smoke.

Health warnings have convinced growing numbers of men to stop smoking. But ironically, women are smoking as much as ever before. Psychologists believe this may be due to an inability to cope with the stress of daily life.

A study by Los Angeles psychiatrist Dr. Louis P. Bozzetti offers this theory concerning women: "The housewife may resent a bored life, the dull household routine, the hangups of her children and her own inadequacies. Many professional women smoke an enormous amount. In situations where they compete with men, smoking helps them cope with tremendous stress."

He urges the public to contact the San Bernardino County Heart Association, 760 N. "D" St., P. O. Box 210, San Bernardino, CA 92402 for information.

fazio's Shopping Bag

THERE'S MORE TO BUYING BEEF THAN
PRICE PER POUND
YOU GET ADDITIONAL VALUE WITH A FAZIO'S VALUE TRIMMED SEMI-BONELESS SHOULDER STEAK OR BONELESS RIB EYE STEAK

Fazio's rib eye Steaks have had the Blade Bone, Rib Bone and all excess fat removed. In addition the liver which is not as tender as the heart of the rib has been removed so you get only the succulent, tender heart of the steak. That means you get more meat value for your dollar.

The value-trimmed shoulder steak is a top meat value because the long unnecessary rib bones and excess fat have been removed which makes this steak semi-boneless. This is a delicious, flavorful economical cut and a steak everyone can afford.

Rancho Ca Sees Beauty In 'Ugly' Fruit

Kiwis, the fruit whose ugliness is only skin deep, are being planted for the first time this year at Rancho California, in Riverside County, according to John Mekeel, manager of agricultural development.

The first plantings will consist of 31 acres. Six acres are owned by Rancho California, the 97,000-acre Kaiser Aetna development. The balance of acres are being planted by Rancho personnel for land owners.

Up until now, kiwis have been grown successfully in Northern and Central California, where the plant was introduced about 45 years ago. The Rancho vines will be the first major experiment in Southern California, according to Mekeel.

Invariably described as "ugly," the kiwi is an egg-shaped fruit with a brown hairy skin. Some say they look like "dirty tennis balls." Kiwis grow on vines, requiring a sturdy trellis system for support.

The fruit's outer appearance is in sharp contrast to its attractive green inner coloring and its taste, which is described as "a delicious cross between a strawberry and a rhubarb."

It is low in calories and high in vitamin C and can be sliced crosswise to add color and exotic flavor to fruit salads. It has been successfully prepared in jams, jellies, preserves, pies, ice cream, and even wine.

Originally kiwis were called Chinese gooseberries from their origin in China. They were planted successfully in New Zealand around 1940. There, the kiwi name became popular due to the fruit's similar appearance to New Zealand's kiwi bird.

"Our approach to kiwi at Rancho California is on an experimental basis," Mekeel explains. "There is still much to be learned about the plant, particularly its success in Southern California. However, this area of Riverside County appears to have an ideal climate for the kiwi."

Kiwis are slightly more expensive to develop than grapes because they require a heavier supporting system. As a result, Mekeel says production costs should average about $1,000 per acre.

Mekeel, who recently was elected to the board of directors of the newly-formed Kiwi Growers Association of Southern California, explains why the fruit is stirring up so much excitement among growers.

"Although it takes about four years for a vine to mature, the ultimate yields per acre are high and the wholesale return per pound is about the highest of any crop."

Something New In The Garden: Lenten Rose

Sometimes people miss out on the most useful and handsome plants that can be grown in their locale—because they just haven't heard about them. This is often the case with the Lenten Rose, a beautiful off-season performer that deserves to be better known.

Polished, dark green leaves never do a disappearing act. Flowers that look like perfect single roses. Profuse bloom from January to April.

The fact that the Lenten Rose (Helleborus Orientalis) can send up its white, pink or purplish flowers without benefit of sun makes it a sound choice for difficult places where the sun never hits.

Both of the so-called Roses grow best if left undisturbed. Give them a permanent place in the garden and let them take care of themselves. They don't require a lot of water. Though they do best in cooler summer climates, they tolerate frost and can take a fair amount of sun as long as there is plenty of organic matter in the soil. The plants like a slightly acid soil. Set them out with a planter mix formulated for Azaleas and Camellias for best results.

The Lenten Rose is in bloom now at your nearby nursery, so choose the color and the form you like the best.

END OF SEASON

Montclair Loses To Katella

Montclair High finished its basketball season last week with a 72-40 loss to top seeded Katella in the first round of CIF 3-A playoffs.

Manhandled most of the season by Ganesha and Gary, Montclair was as prepared as they could be for their contest with Katella.

Montclair Coach Lenny Moore's team was in the game for approximately a minute when Dave King sank a 10-foot jumper to tie the score, 2-2.

Katella then proceeded to disrupt the Cavalier scoring machine with a pressing defense. It was 20-9 at the end of the first quarter. The halftime margin was 39-19 for the Knights, winning their 27th game after a Crestview League final loss to Tustin by one point.

High scorer for the game was 6-6 junior center Jeff Welshans, who made a home for himself at the free throw line in the first period. He connected on seven of nine attempts from the foul line in the eight minutes and gathered 17 points and nine rebounds by halftime.

Chino's Roberts Qualifies In CIF

Only one of 17 Pomona Valley CIF wrestling qualifiers will be eligible to compete in tournament finals at Cal State Hayward. Mark Roberts, Chino High's 141 pounder and San Antonio League runner-up, qualified fourth Saturday evening at Fountain Valley High in CIF Southern Section Finals.

Montclair's heavyweight John Surby and Alta Loma's John Byzewski (130), Ron Packer (148) and Tom Osburn (157) were all eliminated in the first or second rounds of competition.

Upland's Cliff Brown reached the consolation semis in the 157 class, but lost a decision. His teammates Jack Glasheen (115) and Dave Allen (178) were eliminated in early competition.

Roberts' two losses came against the eventual 141 champion, Steve Barrett of Miraleste (15-4) in the third round to Wray McGowen of Righetti (6-4) for the consolation title.

The Chino wrestler's first opponent was Chuck Allgood of Santa Fe. Roberts easily handled Allgood in the first round for a 9-2 decision.

Chaffey Dist. Baseball Is Underway

Chaffey Union High School District baseball teams begin play this week. Alta Loma and Ontario are traditional rivals in the Hacienda League, while Chaffey competes in the rugged Citrus Belt loop.

Upland and Montclair will take on San Antonio League play.

Defending San Antonio champion Upland lacks the power of a year ago, losing Dave Hill (Chaffey College), Gary Waldron and Steve Tarbell (pros), but boasts a starting nine with more speed and experienced hurlers in Mike Scharbrough and Bob Self. The Scots recently dropped a 5-3 decision to Norte Vista (Riverside), a team that went to CIF 3-A semifinals last season.

Montclair is again expected to give Upland a run for the crown, boasting seven vets and "rookie" coach Tom McFadden, up from a successful junior varsity season.

McFadden takes over the helm from Landon Moore, who moved into head basketball mentor, and will be trying to improve on Montclair's runnerup finish in the tourney last year.

Two-year vet Dan Jones will assume the brunt of the mound assignments, along with veteran Bruce Richardson and rookie Mike Casella, up from a strong JV year.

Dale Biggs cards the top bat for the Cavs with a .350 average as a junior.

GIRL'S ATHLETICS -- Montclair High girl athletes began their regular track season recently against Chaffey High School. Shown here are eight of the team's 45 members. Their next game is Friday, March 2 against Fontana, an away meet. Two home games will be held during the season, Thursday, March 8 against Upland and Tuesday, March 27 against Chino. All games begin at 3:15.

Upland Cagers Complete Half Of Season

The Upland basketball league has recently completed mid-season action.

Sierra Vista School leads the A team competition; Baldy View and Upland Elementary School are second and third.

In B team competition, Citrus, Magnolia and Sycamore Elementary School finished in the top three positions.

The league, for boys in grades four through six, is sponsored by Upland recreation department, school district, Kiwanis Breakfast and Host Clubs and Lions Breakfast and Host Clubs. Emphasis is placed on equal playing time for each boy.

Sponsors are seeking additional community support for the teams and increasing attendance at games, played every Tuesday and Wednesday at 3:30 p.m.

For further information concerning game locations, contact the recreation department, 982-1352.

Scheherazade

'They Shot The Bird, Then Left'

"It was one of the worst maimings I've seen in years," said Dr. Theo Winberg, Pomona Valley veterinarian. "The bird had been shot three times -- twice in the right wing with buckshot and once in the back with pellets. It was an hour and a half operation and a tough one. I was surprised when the bird pulled through."

The bird Dr. Winberg referred to is a female Red Tailed Hawk, a bird of prey not uncommon in this area. "The Red Tail is a magnificent bird," Winberg said. "They're proud and fierce, and highly prized by falconers. But their young are hard to catch, because they build their nests on the narrow top limbs of the tallest trees they can find."

This particular Red Tail, named 'Scheherazade' by Winberg and his staff, is now in her 'hag-gard' or adult stage. "A young hawk in his first year is called a 'passage,'" the doctor said. "After a year, the bird moults and gets what are known as hag-gard feathers. This is the bird's entrance into adulthood," Winberg placed Scheherazade's age at between five and six years.

Scheherazade was brought into the veterinary clinic by two young falconers, Mike Harris, 16, and Larry Huff, 18.

"We were in the area up around Mt. Baldy," Mike said. "Larry and I were looking for some new places to hunt with our birds. First we heard something thrashing on the ground. We looked down and there was this hawk. She was bleeding pretty badly, but when we got close, she put up her talons in self defense. She's a real spunky bird."

"We could tell she was hurt bad," Larry continued. "We tied her feet together and put a bag over her head . . . just the way we would a trained bird. She didn't mind having her feet tied, but she couldn't stand having anything over her head. She put up a fight and we had to take the bag off. After that, she sort of went limp."

We thought she was dead, but she was still alive when we got her to the doctor's office."

"The funny thing is," Mike went on, "We'd seen the bird around a lot. In fact, a year ago, I caught and trained one of her passages. I know because I got it out of her nest. Nobody has ever been able to catch Scheherazade, though. She was always too fast for everyone. I guess that's why somebody decided to shoot her."

"Like I said," Winberg went on, "I didn't think I'd be able to save the bird when I first saw her. When it looked as if she might live, I started worrying about whether she'd ever use that right wing again. She had a fracture of the humerus and a fracture of the metacarpal. What this basically means is that her right wing was shot to hell. I repaired it by using a retrograde pinning technique. Naturally I had to put all the small wing bones back in place, and birds have notoriously small wing bones."

Evidently Winberg did a good job. Scheherazade is now able to move her damaged right wing -- and according to her new owner, Mike Harris, it won't be long before she'll be able to fly.

"I've decided to keep her," Mike said. "I lost my last hawk, Sheba, about a week ago. She was out in the garage where I keep the birds, and I forgot to make sure the door was down."

"She just flew away, man," Larry Huff joked.

"It's not so funny," Mike said. "Sheba's a very young bird, and she's not used to being on her own. Luckily, she doesn't like most people, so she'll probably stay clear of them. At least I hope so. A lot of hunters would like a bird like Sheba for a trophy."

Mike and Larry have been involved in falconry for the past two years. Both are now licensed falconers.

"Let's say I 'watched' for the past two years," Mike insisted. "In this state, it's illegal to be involved in falconry before you're 16. In fact, in most states, it's illegal -- period."

"A lot of people think it's cruel to hunt with a bird of prey," Larry said. "The way I see it, it's just a fact of nature. These birds will hunt and kill prey whether they're in the wilds or in captivity. Having a bird in captivity just means you can direct what he'll kill . . . or usually." He paused. "A friend of mine once had a regular peregrine falcon. A hawk like that is hard to come by, but this guy was kind of stupid. He let the bird just flay around his house. It managed to kill off three of his sister's kittens and a parakeet. Then the guy's dad killed the bird . . . though that wasn't fair. It was the guy's fault, not the bird's."

"If you're going to be a falconer, you're going to have to learn something about birds of prey . . . a lot in fact," Mike stressed. "You can't treat a hawk like a pet and expect it to mix in well with the other family pets. These birds are natural hunters. If they see something smaller than they are, they'll probably try to kill it."

"Scheherazade's going to be a great bird . . . once I get her trained. She's typical of her breed, though. She won't listen to anyone but me, and she doesn't seem to like anybody else either. Even my dad can't do much with her."

"And his dad's been a falconer for years," Larry said. "That's how Mike got interested in the first place. They've got hundreds of books and pamphlets at home -- all dealing with birds of prey, and the art of falconry. That's dedication."

"Dad's been involved in falconry since he was a kid," Mike said. "He's written a number of articles defending the sport and, whenever he can, he travels around the state giving lectures on it. Dad says the sport goes back to ancient times, and it would be too bad if it just died out."

"I got into falconry through some friends," Larry said. "I've been hunting for years, but never thought of anything so wild as using a bird to catch prey. This girl I was dating had a brother who had a hawk. She used to tell me about how he'd take the hawk out on weekends, and they'd catch rabbits and other small animals. Well, I was never that great a hunter. So I decided, if a bird could help me -- great. I went out with her brother a couple times, then got a hawk of my own."

"The first hawk I had was accidentally killed by another hunter. I almost got a peregrine falcon then, but she was a little too expensive, so I decided on a Red Tailed Hawk . . . like Scheherazade. I got him out of a nest up around Mt. Baldy area. It was kind of harrowing, climbing the tallest tree in the area -- just to steal a passage out of a hawk's nest. But I made it up the tree and back down without too many scratches and bruises. My bird, Omar, is a good falconry bird. I've had him about three years now, so he's well trained. Unfortunately, about a month ago, I had him out in a field, just exercising him, and some kid with a pellet gun took a shot at him. The pellet hit him in the back. He wasn't hurt too bad, though I had to bring him here to the vet's. He was frightened, though."

"What I can't understand is why the kid shot the bird. I saw him walk away after he watched the bird fall. He wasn't interested in retrieving the bird. He just shot Omar because he was something to shoot at. He didn't even go over to see if the bird was alive or dead after he shot him. That's cruel. Like I said, I've been hunting for years, and I've never done that to an animal. To shoot something, for no reason, is pretty sick, I think."

"I have no opinions as to whether or not falconry is good or bad," Dr. Winberg said. "Personally, I'm not a man who likes to hunt -- anything. But I realize there are a number of people who enjoy the sport. And I know there are a lot of concerned hunters who are cautious about what they shoot, and who are genuinely interested in preserving the balance of nature. Any trained bird used in falconry kills its prey quickly. When birds such as the Red Tailed Hawk are left on their own in their natural environment, they usually kill only when they're hungry. These birds are excellent preservers of the balance of nature. They'll kill rodents, keep the ever-burgeoning rabbit population under control, and take care of a number of small garden pests people keep buying poisons to get rid of."

"Larry brought his bird in here when the kid shot it in the back with the pellet gun. As he said, the bird wasn't badly hurt, but it was frightened, and it might have died of fright or shock had it just been left out in the field. What was done to Scheherazade is inexcusable as far as I'm concerned. I'm certain no good, concerned hunter would ever have done what the people who shot her did. They just walked away and left the bird. If the boys hadn't found her, she would have died a long, painful death. This is just inhumane. It's unfair to cripple a creature and then let it suffer. I've had three or four birds in here in the past couple months. Each had been shot by somebody who simply didn't care. In every case, somebody found the bird dying in a field or in the woods. Maiming like this makes me sick to my stomach."

"Birds of prey can look pretty vicious and scary," Mike concluded. "And I guess it's true that they're killers. But they're not lousy about it. Somehow, a lot of humans are."

Lucky Casserole

From the beginning you knew this day would be different. At the top of the morning, you rolled up a delicious new meat ball idea. Now as the dinner hour fast approaches you've discovered a way to bring the whole meat ball meal out of the ordinary.

You didn't have to catch that leprechaun sitting on the potatoes to know that this Lucky Casserole combines ordinary ingredients in a treasure of good flavor and nutrition.

What is the trick to the good taste of Lucky Casserole? The meat balls are cheese with Cheddar, made moist and firm with milk and egg, then seasoned with onion. But the meat balls only hint at the wealth of flavor that waits below in the lucky layers. Underneath a blanket of sage-tomato sauce is the golden goodness of melted Cheddar cheese. The cheese serves to sharpen the appetite for the next discovery-luscious green beans. The treasure hunt ends where it began, with the leprechaun's potatoes--seasoned and sliced--completing Lucky Casserole with stick-to-the-ribs nourishment and typically Irish flavor.

Lucky Casserole
 1 pound lean ground beef
 1 1/2 cups (6 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
 1/2 cup fine dry bread crumbs
 1/3 cup milk
 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
 1 egg, slightly beaten
 1/3 cup all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 4 cups thinly sliced potatoes (about 4 medium)
 1 package (10 oz.) green beans, thawed
 1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce
 1/2 teaspoon rubbed sage
 In a bowl lightly combine beef,

3/4 cup cheese, bread crumbs, milk, onion and egg. Shape into twenty-four 1 1/2-inch balls. Combine flour, salt and pepper. In a 2-quart rectangular baking dish alternate layers of potatoes, beans and remaining 3/4 cup cheese, sprinkling flour mixture on each layer. Combine tomato sauce and sage; pour over potatoes. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven, 20 minutes. Arrange meat balls over potatoes; pour over remaining sauce. Return to oven to bake for an additional 45 minutes or until potatoes are tender.
 Makes 6 servings.

Proper Care, Storage Of Cheese

Keeping qualities of cheeses are related to their moisture content, states University of California Home Advisor Sharon Higgins. Soft cheeses are perishable and must be refrigerated. Very hard grating cheeses need no refrigeration.

Mold which develops on natural cheese is usually harmless. Cut off or wipe off the mold with a cloth dipped in vinegar.

To prevent drying out of cheese, wrap it in plastic, foil, or wax paper and store in the refrigerator. To prevent refrigerator odors, adds Ms. Higgins, use special care in wrapping those varieties that have strong odors.

Omelets--A Treat For All Meals

The wonderful thing about omelets is that they are equally appropriate for every meal... breakfast, brunch, supper, lunch, dinner or late evening snack.

Here's a puffy omelet that is inspired by the cosmopolitan cooking style centered in New Orleans and known as Creole cookery. While Creole recipes can be highly spiced and peppery this omelet is a milder version of the Creole style.

Puffy Omelet with Creole Sauce
 6 egg yolks
 1 tablespoon flour
 1-1/2 teaspoons salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1/3 cup light cream or milk
 6 egg whites, stiffly beaten
 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes, chopped
 1 can (10-3/4 ounces) condensed tomato soup
 1/2 a 1 pound can boiled onions, drained and sliced

In a bowl, beat egg yolks, flour, salt, pepper and cream until smooth. Fold in egg whites gently. In a large skillet, heat butter until it sizzles, pour in egg mixture. Cook without stirring over moderate heat until underside is golden brown. Place skillet under broiler and broil until top is golden brown. Fold omelet in half and place on a platter. While omelet is cooking prepare creole sauce. In a saucepan, combine remaining ingredients and heat until bubbly. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Spoon sauce over omelet. Serve at once.
 Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Concert Series To Feature The Carpenters

The Carpenters, John Denver, Engelbert Humperdinck, Tom Jones, Kris Kristofferson and Rita Coolidge will be among those who will headline "Season '73," the inaugural Summer Concert Series in Universal Studios Amphitheatre.

The all-superstar program will be presented by MCA Inc. as The Amphitheatre's second outdoor season, an encore to last year's highly acclaimed presentation of "Jesus Christ Superstar."

Most of the named artists will appear for a full week. The ten week series will be augmented with appearances of equally stellar performers from the field of rock, folk and pop to be announced when negotiations and firm dates are finalized.

The Amphitheatre has been enlarged from its original 3,828 to 5,150 seats. Even with the added capacity, the unique intimacy of The Amphitheatre has been preserved. By comparison, the last row at Universal would reach less than 1/3 of the length of the Hollywood Bowl and slightly more than 1/2 of the Greek Theatre, though the seating capacity is 15 per cent greater than that of the Greek. All seats in The Amphitheatre boast a completely unobstructed view of the newly designed stage.

Tickets will be sold in series of eight (8) shows. Preferred locations will be given to advance season ticket buyers. Single tickets will also be sold at the box office, by mail and at the other usual places. Top prices will range from $6.50 to $8.50.

The Amphitheatre talent bookings are being supervised by MCA executive, Raphael Etikes, who headquarters in the MCA Tower, at Universal City. Etikes indicates a major advertising, promotion and group sales effort will back the overall series as well as each artist who will appear.

Tennessee Williams AT USC March 11

Playwright Tennessee Williams will be the guest of honor at a luncheon to be sponsored by the Friends of the USC Libraries March 11 at 12:30 p.m. in the Foyer of Town and Gown on the USC campus.

An informal program following the luncheon will feature Williams' candid replies to questions from a celebrity panel of friends and admirers, according to Stanley Musgrove, President of the Friends of the Libraries.

Ms. Aerol Arnold of Beverly Hills is chairman of planning for the event.

Admission for the event, which will be open to the public, will be $10 per person for the luncheon and attendance at the panel session. USC students only will be admitted for half price.

Reservations may be made by calling 746-6058 at USC.

VCT Wins Showcase Awards

Richard Fisher, director of Valley Community Theatre's current musical comedy hit, "Little Mary Sunshine," was recently awarded Best Actor honors by Showcase Magazine, the magazine for little theatre, for his performance as Henry II in VCT's production of "The Lion In Winter."

No newcomer to awards, Fisher won VCT's Best Actor VICTOR for his performance as Jeeter Lester in "Tobacco Road," in season 1966-1967. He is currently reading "Little Mary Sunshine" for the champagne opening at VCT, Thursday, March 1. Fisher also directed "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf," "Goodbye Charlie" and "Anything Goes" at VCT and many productions at Bakersfield Community Theatre, where he was resident director in 1968-1969.

VCT award-winner Annette Roon (Blanche in "A Streetcar Named Desire") also won a Best Acting award from Showcase Magazine for her performance as Eleanor of Aquitaine in the same production. Miss Roon, a graduate of Pasadena Playhouse, directed "You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running" at VCT which contained the one-act play, "I'm Herbert," awarded the Best one-act award by Showcase Magazine.

VCT award-winner Martha Fuller (Best Actress for "Lovers & Other Strangers") won the Best Female Bit award for her performance as Mrs. Mullin in "Carousel" at VCT last January. Jim Gardner won the Best Supporting Actor award for his performance in "The Boys in the Band" (Harold) at VCT. Margot Andrews won the Best Set Design award for her set for "The Lion In Winter," and Milton Sawitz won a special Award for his contributions to set design. Merrilee Drake, another VCT award winner, won the Best Costume Design award for her creations for Colton Little Theatre's production of "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum."

In other news, the Valley Community Theatre, 132 East Third Street, Pomona will hold tryouts for its forthcoming production of an Alfred Hitchcock murder mystery, ROPE, Monday and Tuesday nights, March 5 and 6, at the theatre at 7:30 p.m. Parts are available for six men and two women.

VCT's current production, "Little Mary Sunshine," a musical spoof of the Jeanette MacDonald/Nelson Eddy musicals of the 30's, is playing Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. For further information and reservations, call 622-6954.

JOSEPH'S SCISSOR STYLING

252 E. POMONA MALL PHONE (714) 622-8542
105 S. FIRST AVE., ARCADIA PHONE 447-1526

Back in the 15th century a noted artist kept notebooks filled with left-handed mirror writing and sketches of his inventions and ideas—some of which were not developed until the 20th century.

Leonardo da Vinci, famed for his "Mona Lisa" and "Last Supper," knew his ideas were ahead of his time and would only bring censure from his countrymen. Today, however, they are looked upon with awe, and International Business Machines Corporation's Department of Arts and Sciences has created an exhibit of models and panels showing his inventiveness.

The IBM Exhibition of Models of Inventions by Leonardo da Vinci will be on display from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays through March 15 in the Clark Humanities Museum at Scripps College. It is open to the public.

Included in the show are models of both practical and theoretical devices. A paddle-wheel ship, an idea not successfully developed until the advent of steam power in the 19th century; a theoretical gear system producing three rotation speeds as in today's auto transmission; a device for determining the tensile strength of wire; even an ornithopter, Leonardo's forerunner of our helicopter and airplane, are exhibited. Although Leonardo considered war "a bestial madness" he designed an armored tank, a parachute, a mechanical bow and a scaling ladder.

Because of his scientist's concern with accuracy and measurement, Leonardo devised a hygrometer to measure humidity; an anemometer to measure wind velocity; and an inclinometer to determine the degree of slope. Models of these instruments are included in the exhibit.

The models, painted red, yellow, blue and green, are displayed with panels of explanatory material and sketches reproduced from Leonardo's notebooks. Other panels show his sketches in such fields as mathematics, optics, astronomy, botany and city planning.
